Geographical Indications (GIs) are expected to be one of the more contentious issues in forthcoming trade negotiations between the EU and Australia and New Zealand. This presentation and panel discussion provides an opportunity to understand the key issues.

Presenter

Mr John Clarke

Chief Agricultural Trade Negotiator for the EU–Australia Free Trade Agreement, and Director for International Relations at Directorate-General Agriculture, European Commission

Mr John Clarke is the Director for International Relations at Directorate-General Agriculture at the European Commission. He was previously Head of the European Union Delegation to the World Trade Organization and the United Nations in Geneva. He joined the European Commission in 1993 as a Trade Negotiator, and prior to that Mr Clarke was for ten years an official of the Hong Kong Government, including the Head of Cabinet of the Governor of Hong Kong.

ANU CENTRE FOR EUROPEAN STUDIES

ANU College of Arts & Social Sciences

The ANU Centre for European Studies (ANUCES) is the oldest research centre in Australia focused on the study of Europe and the European Union. It is an ANU-wide platform for research and collaboration with Europe, with strong links to government and industry. ANUCES focuses the talents of hundreds of researchers, teachers and students on a single site, and proudly promotes interdisciplinary dialogue. It delivers research, education and outreach with the support of the Erasmus+ Programme of the European Union.
