

Reflections on Russia-NATO Relations following the Fall of the Wall

A PARTICIPANT'S PERSPECTIVE

The ANU Centre for European Studies is delighted to host a discussion between ANUCES Distinguished Visitor, Dr Klaus-Peter Klaiber KCMG, together with ANUCES Visiting Fellows, Mr Kyle Wilson and Dr John Besemeres, on the post-Cold War relationship between Russia and NATO in the second half of the twentieth century. Chaired by ANUCES Director Anne McNaughton, the conversation will explore Dr Klaiber's experiences as a diplomat and NATO Assistant Secretary General, and the panel's observations on the tumultuous decade between 1989-1999.

Dr Klaus-Peter Klaiber KCMG is one of Germany's most experienced diplomats. He has variously served in the then-Republic of Zaire (1971-1973), the United States of America (1977-1980), Kenya (1980-1982), the United Kingdom (1991-1994), and most recently, as ambassador to Australia (2002-2005). His tenure as Assistant Secretary General of NATO between 1997 and 2001 coincided with the transition between the Yeltsin and Putin administrations, and the landmark Founding Act on Mutual Relations, Cooperation and Security between NATO and Russia. He was made the Centre's first distinguished Visiting Fellow in 2005.
